NEWS RELEASE

MEDIA ADVISORY

The only thing small about the $3.3 million renovation of the University of Dayton Children's Center will be the team of tiny, hard-hat-wearing engineers turning the first shovel of dirt. The School of Education and Allied Professions will begin the conversion of the center into an early childhood education learning demonstration school at a groundbreaking at 10 a.m. Tuesday, April 18, at the Children's Center, 941 Alberta St.

When completed, the expansion will nearly triple the 7,340-square-foot facility with a 13,600-square-foot addition. The center will have a capacity for 120 children, up from the current capacity of 85 children.
